

A biocultural analysis of the Medieval human remains from Ballyhanna, County Donegal.

Ballyhanna Public Lecture 15/07/07

Catriona McKenzie, BA, MSc

Queen's University Belfast

Supervised by:

Dr. Eileen Murphy & Dr. Colm Donnelly

Specific Infection: A likely case of Tuberculosis

- Lytic lesions evident causing severe bone resorption
- No evidence of new bone formation
- Associated structural collapse

Diaphyseal Aclasia/ Multiple Hereditary Exostoses

Diaphyseal Aclasia/ Multiple Hereditary Exostoses

